James Oakley started sailing when he was 9 years old on the South Coast of England. Progressing through the racing and instructor courses at the local sailing school he tried his hand at Windsurfing eventually leading him to enter national and European races. James ultimately placed top ten several different years in the Windsurfing World Championships. After college James ran Club Mistral Windsurfing Centre in Barbados.

James eventually joined the Royal Marines in the landing craft branch. During his military tenure James specialized as a physical training instructor gaining vast experience in planning and implementing military training camps all over Europe, he focused primarily on outdoor activities such as sailing, windsurfing, diving, skiing and cycling.

James is a qualified RYA Yacht master and PADI Dive master. Let James share with you his passion for diving and share the tranquility of sailing in paradise.

Originally growing up in Yorkshire, England, Christine trained as a phlebotomist working in the UK health care system. This training provided a solid foundation in serving and caring for others. Christine later studied at Asburton College of Cooking and after many years of cooking experience she offers a spectacular variety of dishes onboard.

Christine met James and immediately became involved in the same activities while sharing his enthusiasm in the great outdoors. His background in training guided her to fine tune her skills in yachting, diving, skiing, cycling, climbing and paragliding as she accompanied James in his adventures over the last 6 years.

Christine is now an accomplished PADI Advanced Diver and boat handler. Her diving has taken her From France to Egypt and now the Caribbean. This experience combined with her hospitality skills and boundless energy gives her the ability to spoil her guests with creative dishes while offering warm personal service making your stay on Toucan Play a memorable one.

Christine and James look forward to you "relaxing as hard as you like" while they wine and dine you in style!
